

¡ Bienvenidos a Chicago!

XXIX ANNUAL CONFERENCE, MARCH 27-30, 2002

By María A. Beltrán-Vocal, Site Committee Chair

I would like to thank the members of the NACCS 2002 Annual Conference Site Committee. I could not ask for a better working group of community representatives, students, high school and elementary school teachers, staff, and faculty, who have spent (and will continue to do so) endless hours working on this conference. I would also like to thank the sponsoring institutions who, to this date, have generously contributed to cover the expenses of the conference. To DePaul University our gratitude for providing us with the space and the resources to have our meetings, as well as the generous contribution from the Office of the Dean and the Office of the Vice President. This conference would not be working as it is if it had not been for the help of individuals from the University of Notre Dame, University of Minnesota, Northern Illinois University at DeKalb, Northeastern Illinois University at Chicago, University of Illinois at Chicago and Azteca Foods, who were able to help me find funding from these businesses and institutions. Additionally, help from all volunteers from various universities, community and student organizations, as well as elementary and high school teachers from the Chicago area deserve all the credit for what you will experience in Chicago.

As the theme of the conference suggests, the site committee, has prepared a conference that addresses the different roles of Chicanas in and outside of the United States. Furthermore, in reflection of the events of September 11, the committee decided to create a round table discussion to address the immediate effects of this tragedy on our communities. Dr. Teresa Córdova from the University of New Mexico and Jesús García, former senator and Executive Director of Little Village Community Development Corporation, will address the socio-economic and political points of view.

We have a few more weeks of work but I am confident that you will find many interesting panels, round tables and workshops. I look forward to seeing you in Chicago. I believe that the Site Committee has done everything (within our means), that is needed to bring to the NACCS membership a conference that represents our different perspectives and diversity. ■

La Comunidad, History, and Chicago

By Victor Ortiz

The third largest city in the country, Chicago is surpassed only by Los Angeles in the size of its Mexican population. In spite of this prominence, the city is often overlooked in the national Chicano landscape. Notwithstanding, Mexicans in this vibrant city are neither insignificant nor new.

The first massive European immigration waves are over a century old; those of Mexicans began around 1919. At that time South Chicago employers recruited Mexicans from Texas and the interior of Mexico to work as strikebreakers in the steel mills. Once they learned of the conditions of their hiring, many of these newcomers refused to cross the picket line. During these years a Mexican colonia also arose closer to downtown, on the Near West Side. This neighborhood was converted in the early 1960s into the Chicago campus of the University of Illinois at Chicago. A remaining testament to this immigrant legacy is Hull House, the social settlement founded by Jane Adams in 1889 to provide shelter and support to immigrants to the area—it served Mexicans after 1920. The Hull House Museum on South Halsted Avenue commemorates this historical site. A third barrio sprung up near the Stock Yards, where Mexicans began to work in the early 1920s. Although Packingtown is long gone a thriving, mixed ethnic community remains in "Back of the Yards."

Today the Pilsen neighborhood is the most visible entry point for new immigrants from Mexico. Pilsen has served as the port of entry for numerous immigrant groups such as Czechs, Poles and Italians. Population dispersal, the expansion

Pura Belpré Awards Announced

Susan Guevara, illustrator of Chato and the Party Animals, written by Gary Soto and published by G.P. Putnam's Sons, and Pam Muñoz Ryan, author of Esperanza Rising, published by Scholastic Press received the Pura Belpré Book Awards for the best illustrator and writer for 2002.

The Pura Belpré Awards, established in 1996, is presented to a Latina/Latino writer and illustrator whose work best portrays, affirms, and celebrates the Latino cultural experience in an outstanding work of literature for children and youth. The award is named after Pura Belpré, the first Latina librarian from the New York Public Library. As a children's librarian, storyteller, and author, she enriched the lives of Puerto Rican children in the U.S. through her pioneering work of preserving and disseminating Puerto Rican folklore. The awards are given biennially.

The awards were announced at the American Library Association meetings last month. ALSC, Association for Library Service to Children (a division of the ALA), and REFORMA, the National Association to Promote Library and Information Service to Latinos and the Spanish Speaking administer the award.

Susan Guevara's larger-than-life, mural-like images translate and extend Soto's barrio story with vitality, color and social commentary. Discovering that his best friend, Novio Boy, has never had a birthday party, Chato the Cat plans a surprise pachanga. Everything is set except that Chato forgets to invite the guest of honor. Sly humor and Latino symbolism abound in these innovative, acrylic-on-scratchboard illustrations.

In Esperanza Rising, pampered thirteen-year-old Esperanza and her mother are forced to flee Mexico following her father's sudden death and his brothers' takeover of their land.

In a California migrant-worker camp, they encounter poverty and racism that are mitigated by the support of family and friends. Esperanza's response to the fall from a privileged life into a 1930s, immigrant experience transforms her from a spoiled child into strong adolescent.

One Honor Book for Illustration also was selected: Juan

Bobo Goes to Work, illustrated by Joe Cepeda, retold by Marisa Montes and published by HarperCollins Publishers. Two Author Award Honor Books were named: Iguanas in the Snow, by Francisco X. Alarcón, illustrated by Maya Christina Gonzalez, published by Children's Book Press; and Breaking Through by Francisco Jiménez, published by Houghton Mifflin Company. UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, SANTA BARBARA

Department of Chicano Studies

Chicana Studies Dissertation Fellowship

The Department of Chicano Studies, an interdisciplinary unit at the University of California Santa Barbara, invites applications for two Chicana Studies Dissertation Fellowships for the academic year 2002-2003. Candidates must be advanced to Ph.D. candidacy and expect completion of the dissertation during their fellowship tenure. During the fellowship period Chicana Studies Dissertation scholars will work toward completion of their dissertation and teach one undergraduate course in the area of their expertise. The Department of Chicano Studies is committed to assisting promising scholars complete the dissertation, prepare for university teaching and research, and achieve increased professional recognition and associations. We invite applications from candidates in the humanities, social sciences, and interdisciplinary studies whose research focuses on Chicana studies. The duration of the award is nine months and the total award is $20,000 plus benefits. Fellows are required to be in residence during the entire fellowship period and they have highest priority for campus housing.

To apply, send a cover letter (including date of advancement to candidacy), a CV, a description of the completed and yet-to-be completed chapters of the dissertation, a writing sample (approximately 25 pages), and two letters of reference to:

*Professor Yolanda Broyles-Gonzalez,
Department of Chicano Studies/Univ. of California, Santa Barbara
Santa Barbara, CA 93106.*

Deadline for the receipt of complete applications is

Pacific Northwest organizes Regional Conference

The Pacific Northwest FOCO will hold its regional conference Saturday, April 27, 2002 at Washington State University, Pullman, Washington. The primary purpose of the conference is to bring together students and faculty from throughout our FOCO to dialogue about our work and to provide mentorship to students in the Northwest. A workshop on applying to graduate school is already in the works. The deadline for proposals for papers, workshops or roundtables is April 1st. Please send four copies of your proposal to:

Linda Heidenreich
Dept. Women's Studies, 4007
Washington State University
Pullman, WA 99164-4007

of the University of Illinois, and gentrification threatens further displacement of this barrio. Several important landmarks in Pilsen stand out: 1) The Rudy Lozano Library, named in memory of a labor activist who was murdered in 1983 under suspicious conditions; 2) The Fine Arts Mexican Center Museum, the nation's largest Latino arts institution (<http://www.mfacmchicago.org>); 3) Casa Aztlán, a grass roots organization arising in the heyday of the Chicano Movement; 4) La Décima Musa, a restaurant and cultural center co-owned by two feminists concerned with the political, cultural, and artistic advancement of Mexicans; and 5) The Jumping Bean, a trendy coffee shop that serves as a meeting point for young artists and activists. While in Pilsen, look for murals throughout the neighborhood, some of which are works painted or directed by the renowned Chicano artist Marcos Raya.

The conference site is about 30 blocks to the east of Pilsen, whose business strip (18th street) offers great restaurants with diverse cuisines from many regions of Mexico. Further west, La Villita (Little Village) is a showcase of Mexican entrepreneurship, whose commercial strip on 26th Street is one of the city's main sales tax revenue generators. For the last twenty years this community has served as the base of one of the most successful independent bastions of city politics, centered around former senator Jesus Garcia, which focused on the needs of Mexican progressive constituencies. In recent elections, however, this independent effort has suffered major electoral defeats. As the Mexican presence in the city has expanded (reaching around 20% in 2000), an increasing number of Latinos have settled in the suburbs. Two prominent examples of this growth are Berwyn and Cicero. According to census data, Cicero's 66,000 Latinos make up 77% of that suburb's population. Berwyn's 20,000 Latinos represent a 38% increase in recent decades. This impressive growth attests to the intensity of the Chicano/Mexican presence in Chicago.

While in Chicago, you may want to contact some of the community organizations committed to the advancement of Latino causes in a large array of areas. Four possible groups to start would be Casa Aztlán (312-666-5508), La Hermandad Mexicana (an outgrowth of the organization created by Bert Corona in Southern California, Amigas Latinas (lesbian and bisexual Latinas) (312-409-5697), ALMA (Association of Latino Men for Action), Project Vida (provides assistance and education regarding HIV) (773-522-4570), and Sin Fronteras (773-836-8383). To drive to the old steel mill districts, take Interstate 90/94 south, take the Chicago Skyway exit, then go east on the Skyway to Indiana Harbor and Gary in northwestern Indiana, located about 25 minutes from downtown Chicago. ■

Yo, here's Ho

by Maria Ramirez

Don't Call me a "Ho", no mo
Oh no, that's gotta go
If we're talking unity
Then there's got to be
At least some degree of R---E---S---P---E---C---T.
Now, I'm not looking for a fight
I just want to help set things right
These names you call me
Downright apall me
BITCH... TRAMP... WHORE
I just don't want to hear it anymore
I am your MOTHER,
your SISTER,
your TIA,
Yo soy Maria.
I love my gente, and am part of "la lucha"
so please if you don't mind,
Don't call me a PUTA.
It's time we get together and reassess
our indigenous traditions that are the best.
The ways of our elders, that promote
Peace and Harmony
Which is the way it use to be
and so you see,
I'm not out to be your Superior
I just don't want to be treated like I'm Inferior
The feminine and masculine energy was always recognized as the duality
This duality is the key to unleashing our creativity
for the benefit of humanity
The eagle and condor prophesy speaks to the need for unity
In order to fulfill our destiny.
Please stop with the Bitch, Tramp, and Whore
There just is no need for that anymore.

EASTERN
WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Eastern Washington University, with an enrollment of approximately 9,000 students, is located in Cheney and Spokane, Washington. The area is the heart of the Inland Northwest, with excellent skiing, hiking, restaurants, theater, shopping, a choice of living in a medium-sized city or a small town, and high quality schools and housing.

Eastern Washington University's College of Education and Human Development, Department of Counseling, Educational and Developmental Psychology, offers undergraduate programs emphasizing preparation for careers in human services and education where knowledge of development and exceptionality are central, as well as preparation for graduate study. High quality graduate programs in Special Education, Community and Mental Health Counseling, School Counseling, School Psychology, Developmental Psychology and College Instruction in Psychology are offered. The counseling programs are accredited by CACREP and the School Psychology Program has recently applied for accreditation by NASP. Information on other openings in School Psychology and Special Education can be viewed at our website: <http://www.ewu.edu>

School Counseling

BILINGUAL COUNSELING & SUPPORT PROJECT (BCSP)
ASSISTANT OR ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR (TENURE TRACK)

NOTE: to be filled as soon as possible.

RESPONSIBILITIES: Coordinate the BCSP project within the school counseling emphasis of the counseling program, advise department majors, coordinate internships, work with the PEAB, interact with the office of the state superintendent of public instruction, teach and oversee counseling coursework at the graduate and undergraduate levels, participate in local, state and regional professional associations and demonstrate productive scholarship while maintaining collaborative relations with faculty, public schools, and community organizations. Participate in grant development and provide service to the university and the profession.

QUALIFICATIONS: Earned doctorate in Counselor Education or related field is required; ABD applicants will be considered for Assistant level if doctorate completion is scheduled prior to January, 2003. Documented professional experience in public school counseling including experience with immigrant bilingual and/or LEP students is required as well as ability to work collaboratively across disciplines with children. Experience working with diverse ethnic communities is critical to the success of the project. Demonstrated excellence in teaching and advising students are required as well as the ability to use technology to support learning. University teaching experience is preferred. Applicants are expected to be involved in related professional organizations and have demonstrated productive scholarship. National Counselor and National School Counselor certifications (NCC and NCSC) are preferred. Graduate of a CACREP-accredited program is preferred.

The successful candidate will be required to pass a background check and show proof of eligibility to work in the U.S. pursuant to U.S. immigration laws. Eastern Washington University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, and applications from members of historically underrepresented groups are especially encouraged. Additional information regarding Eastern Washington University is available via our web page at <http://www.ewu.edu>.

MARCH FOR EDUCATION

By Ezequiel Flores, Educational March Chair

On Mother's Day, May 13th, 2001, immigrant mothers, fathers and children from the Little Village community declared a hunger strike to raise awareness for a new high school to ease over crowding and provide state-of-art services to their community.

The strikers employed a collective leadership style where all participants were equal in the decision-making process. The nearly three-week-long hunger strike attracted local and national media attention to the area symbolically known as "Campamento César Chávez" (Camp César Chávez), the site of the proposed school at 31st and Kostner.

The hunger strike ended June 1st after Chicago Public School officials agreed to meet with the community to discuss building the new high school. Through the strike and organizing efforts, the community was able to expose the harsh realities that often face immigrant and working class communities of color when fighting for equality, justice and basic services such as education.

Our historic march, on Thursday March 28th, shall be in support of the mothers' fight for education as well as to promote social justice and community action. Please come join us!

FAQ's for Travelers

1. What identification is required to check-in and enter beyond the screening checkpoints? One, government issued, photo ID, like a driver's license or a passport, is required to receive your boarding pass. A boarding pass in addition to a government issued photo ID will be required to enter the terminals beyond the screening checkpoints. It is highly recommended to have additional identification if needed.

2. How far in advance should travelers arrive prior to a scheduled departure? Airports are advising travelers to arrive at least two to three hours in advance of their scheduled departure. Travelers should also inquire with airlines for more specific information.

3. Is curbside check-in available? Curbside check-in is available on a limited basis depending on your airport. You might want to contact your airline/airport regarding curbside check-in. It is recommended for travelers to use curbside check-in options if available to avoid longer lines. Once you have used the curbside option for checking luggage, there is no need to stand in line at the ticket counter. Travelers should proceed directly to the screening checkpoint.

4. What items are prohibited beyond the screening checkpoint and in carry-on luggage? Cutting instruments of every kind including all knives, box cutters and other folding or retractable blades, regardless of blade length or composition, metallic or non-metallic. Also included are any kinds of scissors, including all cuticle instruments. Any of these items can be packed in your check-in luggage. Any items removed at the screening checkpoint will not be returned.

5. How many pieces of luggage are travelers permitted to carry on a flight? Most carriers are limiting carry-on items to include one piece of luggage with a personal item such as a purse, briefcase, laptop or diaper bag. It is highly recommended that travelers avoid bringing gift-wrapped items beyond the screening checkpoints. Gift-wrapped items can be checked.

6. What can travelers do in advance to prepare for checkpoint screening? Remove all metal and electronic devices such as coins, pens, cell phones, cameras, and pagers prior to walking through the magnetometers. All laptop computers and cases must be X-rayed. Remove the laptop computer from the case before arriving to the screening checkpoint.

7. Are there arrangements travelers can make needing special assistance? Arrangements should be made in advance through the airline. Travelers are permitted beyond screening checkpoint to escort passengers needing special assistance. An escort/guardian pass must be obtained at the airline ticket counter to proceed beyond the screening checkpoint. Two forms of photo identification are required.

8. Can food items be taken through the screening checkpoints? Food items are permitted beyond the screening checkpoints; however, to avoid further examination, it is highly recommended that travelers taking food items beyond the screening checkpoints have items wrapped to be screened. Avoid bringing opened liquid items.

For any information or questions that may not have been addressed in this format, please contact the airline directly.
