BIENVENIDOS -- WELCOME

The NACS 1993 site committee welcomes you to El Pueblo de San José de Guadalupe. The site committee has met since July of 1992 to plan the 21st NACS conference. The recent financial cuts in institutions of higher learning preclude the possibility of any single institution from sponsoring a conference. Thus, the Northern California FOCO decided to engage in a collaborative effort building a conference which linked educational institutions and Raza in the greater Bay Area. This conference is the product of committed individuals and their institutions whose involvement has made the conference a reality.

The site committee's first task was to consider a theme for the conference. In light of the historical, cultural, gender, political, and economic issues of the last two decades, we agreed that it was time to reconsider and assess the meaning and purpose of Chicano Studies. After examining materials of previous conferences and engaging in long discussions, we found ourselves focusing on the issue of Redefining Chicano Studies. The theme of the conference became REDEFINING CHICANO AND CHICANA STUDIES. To support this theme, the site committee sought parity in presentations and access at all levels of conference planning, and implementation of academic and cultural events. We believe that the program of the 1993 NACS conference has achieved this goal.

The site committee members represent a diverse community. It is through their leadership, hard work, and dedication that the preparations for the conference truly emerged out of a collaborative effort. In the course of our deliberations we learned from each other about our local heroes. In recognition of those who with their actions have laid a tradition of activism for us as Chicana and Chicano scholars, we dedicate this conference to Dr. Mauro Chavez (Aug. 4, 1947 - Sept. 23, 1992) whose life and career reflected the type of collective action we seek to emulate. Chavez was a compassionate man with a sincere concern for others. He was a man of uncompromising principles whose work and activities were struggles for social justice. Mauro Chavez set the standard for countless people in the San José Chicano/Latino and Evergreen communities by his commitment to the pursuit of social justice.

In the spirit of collaboration we welcome you to this conference and to the Pueblo de San José de Guadalupe.

SUSAN HAMMER
MAYOR

March 3, 1993

Dear Friends,

On behalf of the residents of the City, I welcome you to San Jose, the Capital of Silicon Valley.

We are indeed honored that the National Association of Chicano Studies (NACS) has chosen San Jose as the site for its 21st annual conference.

The conference theme on redefining Chicana and Chicano studies is relevant in these times as our social institutions continue to undertake the challenges of reinventing themselves to meet the needs of a diverse community.

You will find the greater San Jose area is significant because of the major gains made by Chicanos and Latinos in social, political, and economic circles. These accomplishments will continue to have local, regional, and national impact, ensuring a promising future for our entire community.

I hope you may take some time to enjoy the fruits of our downtown renaissance. You will find the citizens of San Jose to be hospitable, the area climate agreeable, and the diverse social activities enjoyable.

I wish you all the success as you undertake the serious work on behalf of the National Association of Chicano Studies.

Sincerely,

Susan Hammer
Mayor

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR
CITY OF SAN JOSÉ

Proclamation

- WHEREAS: The National Association of Chicano Studies (NACS) was established in 1971, to encourage committed, critical, and rigorous research necessary in the problem solving processes that result in political actualization of the entire Chicano community; and
- WHEREAS: The NACS has slated its 21st annual conference in San Jose from March 24th through 27th, 1993, at the Fairmont and San Jose Hilton Towers hotels; and
- WHEREAS: The NACS Conference will attract over 1,200 educators, scholars, students, and interested individuals from throughout the United States and Mexico; and
- WHEREAS: The NACS Conference coordinating committee chose San Jose as the site for its annual meeting because of the significance the Spanish, Mexicans, Mestizos, and Chicanos have had on the history and culture of the Santa Clara Valley, the significance the Mexican American community is continuing to have in culture, economic development, and politics throughout the region, and the actual physical beauty of our community, especially the renaissance of the downtown which is able to accommodate a gathering of this size; and
- WHEREAS: The Conference theme will be on Redefining Chicana and Chicano Studies. Many of the activities will focus on the importance of Chicanos as the cultural diversity of the San Jose, Santa Clara Valley, and California's cultural heritage;

NOW, THEREFORE I, Susan Hammer, Mayor of the City of San Jose, by this Proclamation, do hereby commend the

for its commitment to critical and rigorous research that culminates in political, social, and economic empowerment of the entire Chicano/Latino Community.

Attested to by:

Clerk of the City of San José

The Honorable Susan Hammer

Recognitions

The National Association for Chicano Studies (NACS), the Chicana Caucus, the Lesbian Caucus and the Coordinating Committee celebrate International Women's History month by recognizing the historical contributions that Chicanas have made to the Arts, the Academy and to our communities. Their contributions, dedication and commitment as, Creative Women, Cultural Workers, Cultural Recorders, Community Activist, and Artists, documents Chicana/o History and our Cultural experiences. Through their commitment to social change, their work depicts our existence, resistance and our reclamation as Chicana/os which the association embodies. With pride, honor and respect we congratulate them.
